Foreword

by the FEI President

On behalf of the Fédération Equestre Internationale (FEI), I am delighted to welcome you to the Czech Republic and the historic town of Most for the FEI Open European Endurance Championships 2013.

Equestrian sport has been developing at full pace in the Czech Republic in recent years. This year however it will be known for playing host to some of the most promising Endurance talent from around Europe.

We will all have the pleasure of seeing some of the most dedicated endurance riders compete here, and it will be thrilling for all involved to witness their skill and enthusiasm.

I am absolutely thrilled that smaller nations such as the Czech Republic are beginning to make their mark in horse sport. Indeed, the Czech Equestrian Federation is now the umbrella group for approximately 26.000 members in 1600 riding clubs, many of whom be taking an interest in the event in Most in their attempt to see a rise in performance and new talent across all FEI disciplines.

Endurance as a discipline tests not only the general sporting prowess and horsemanship of those competing, but also allows fans to really get a feel for a prolonged competition and event.

On that note, I would like to take the opportunity to thank all the organizers and others involved in making these Championships happen. I am sure they will be a great success and re-iterate not only my personal commitment but that of the entire FEI to ensuring Endurance keeps its deserved status with the community of FEI disciplines.
